FRENCH PROVINCIAL FAIENCE QUIMPER

HB/Henriot Quimper, a name known wherever pottery is prized, is still made today in the town of Quimper, in the province of Brittany, France. Each piece is fully and individually hand painted, initiated by the artist and signed by the factory mark.

Among the numerous designs produced, we feature those which reflect the diversity of decors created by Quimper artisans. Flowers, cocks, birds and particularly the peasant figures, in their curious high laced coats and baggy pantaloons, capture the charm of life in Brittany. Henriot founded in 1898 - broad dark blue bands and a sunny yellow border encircle the naive figures dressed in gay colors, on a background of white glaze. Mineral - a design in green and rose creates a floral border, accented with herring, surrounding a Breton figure on a soft blue glaze. Soleil - sunny, bright yellow glaze sets off the green grass and rose colors of the Breton figure and border. Fleur Royal - array of flowers in pastel colors on a soft blue background individually created and designed by the artist. Tradition - a vibrant and detailed floral garland encompasses the colorfully painted Breton couple. Champêtre - captures the essence of French country life with the cockerel, masterful symbol of France, decorated in bold colors on a white glaze.

HISTORY

Quimper, the quaint, old world, grey granite town is dominated by the ancient Cathedral of St. Corentin built in the 15th century. Bordering the Odet River and near the center of town stands the old pottery factory. Traditions of pottery making in Quimper go back as far as Gallo-Roman times. However, Jean Baptiste Bouquet is credited as being the founder of the pottery industry, since it was he who in 1890 first hired other artisans to form a factory. Two important surviving factories, Henriot and Grande Manon HB, merged in 1968 to form the HB/Henriot factory of today.

HB/Henriot Quimper faience has been improved without losing its character. The texture of the finish is smoother and the shapes more uniform, yet the brilliant colors are still hand mixed and hand painted, thus each piece is individual with slight differences in decoration. Even the glazing technique is done by hand creating an uneven finish, and small patches here and there, which is a characteristic of the production.

The history, character, and alluring patterns of the HB/Henriot pottery make this a truly unique French country earthenware perfectly suited for formal or informal dining and decorating. Of the many patterns produced by this famous faienceerie, the traditional patterns have stood the test of time and have a charming, old world influence on the user. Quimper will bring joy to your home for many years.

We are pleased to present to you our unique array of Quimper which has the warmth of French country yet all the style and sophistication of France.

Quimper is the only French pottery which has been continuously made since the 17th century and has never deviated from the old painting techniques. Throughout its history, thousands of molds and hundreds of patterns have been designed and remain in our archives. Today’s artisans, working as their ancestors, are inspired by the rich and varied culture of Brittany and apply these images to their art. Entirely painted by hand with meticulous care, each piece is created with a sense of pleasure. Painting in bold colors over glaze, with a turn of the artist’s wrist (coup de pinceau), imparts an unrivaled brilliance to the final product.

As you browse through our collection you will notice we have chosen traditional decors and forms and also contemporary objects inspired by the faïenceries’ immense heritage. We send our complete catalogue only once a year, so please keep it in a convenient place to refer to any time you need something special for weddings, birthdays, anniversaries, hostesses, any occasion and especially for yourself. Whether choosing a lamp to light up your home or a unique gift for a friend, we offer the special service of shipping your purchases and bringing to you our extensive collection of Quimper and personalized attention.

Quimper continues to transcend time and delight collectors all over the world. We hope our selection fills you with inspiration and encourages you to visit our shops or let us serve you by mail or phone.
